Dear Professor Fria,
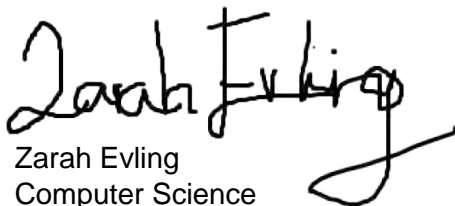

I went to Santa Monica College fall 2013 for just one semester before I had to go back to Sweden. I decided to pursue a bachelor´s degree starting again at SMC spring 2015. I knew that Computer Science was the field for me, but I hadn't yet found my niche until I received the email from you. All the pieces fell into place and the title Information Architect intrigued me.

SMC offering a Bachelor Degree in Interaction Design is just what I need and want. I would jump at the opportunity to enroll in such a program. It seems like the perfect package of user interface design and technological programming. I would get to use my experience of administration support and system management as I learn in the "behind the scenes" aspects. This is the perfect major for me. An education like this would strengthen my competence and deepen my knowledge, it would set me on a career path with a whole new level of expertise and I know that I could do great things with the education.

I will begin at SMC with the perfect qualifications for this major. I have the passion, enthusiasm, and background to make this something special for both myself and for SMC as a part of the first graduating class in Interactive Design!

With that said, I fully support and hope it will become a reality. And I really hope that I will get a chance to be a part of it.

Best regards,

Zarah Evling
